Farewell Seiuli and Taavao

Today is an emotional one as we bid 2 of our finest yet best of the game in Samoa Life Assurance Corporation. We farewell our Assistant General Manager ICT for over 20 years of service Mr. Seiuli Masalosalo Levale and then also one of our Senior Sales Agent Mr. Taavao Livingstone for over 30 years with us.

From staff and management thank you both for your service through out these past years. Words cannot express how much you have sacrificed and contributed for Samoa Life throughout all these past years.

Your presence will be missed but your memories will be cherished. Wishing you both success in your next journey. All the best gentlemen.

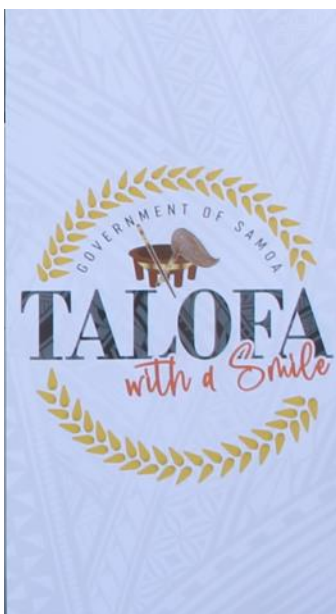

Talofa with a Smile

Samoa Life Assurance had a fantastic time participating in Public Service Day! We joined the lively parade that marched from the police station to the front of the government building

It was a day dedicated to recognizing the value and virtue of public service in our beautiful country to honor the commitment and sacrifices of our dedicated government employees.

After the parade, we continued the celebration with indoor activities that were filled with laughter and fun! Our theme for the day? "Talofa with a smile."

Let's ponder a little....

Think a minute...The famous writer George Bernard Shaw said: "When I was a young man, I observed that 9 out of 10 things I did were failures. I did not want to be a failure, so I did 10 times more work."

All successful people say the same thing: "Luck is what you make of it with hard work." As important as a good education is, it does not guarantee success. In every kind of career, there are successful people who had little natural talent or education to begin with. But the most important thing they had was the desire and discipline to keep working toward reaching their full potential and success.

There is simply no substitute for hard work. Even if you naturally know how to charm and get along with people, you still must do the work to finish the job well. If you're naturally smart in school, you still have to spend the time and effort learning the new knowledge. If you do not have a lot of natural talent or ability, then you must work even harder. It's a fact of life.

So why waste one more minute of what's left of your life? Ask Jesus to forgive you for not living the way you know you should. Then ask Him to take charge of your character and way of living. Since He is your Maker, He knows how to help you work hard and work smart, so your life will work right. That's how His awesome plan for your success and satisfaction can happen. Just think a minute...

Farewell for John

Samoa Life hosted a fiafia dinner to farewell again, one of its long serving members. Mr John Coffin was the Corporations main Cashier for over 10 years and has been with in Samoa Life for over 20 years of service. John tendered his resignation for he and his family will be moving abroad for a new role he will be pursuing in New Zealand.

We wishe to congratulate and acknowledge John for the services he has provided and wish him all the best in their future endeavors.

SAMCO CAREER DAY

We had an incredible time at Samoa College Career Day, where we had the privilege of sharing insights about the world of life insurance with the future leaders of Samoa.

Seeing those bright faces and beautiful smiles throughout the two-day event on the 13th and 14th September, was truly heart-warming. It's clear that these young minds are eager to make smart choices for their futures!

Our mission is to prepare and inspire these talented students to consider a career with Samoa Life. We believe in nurturing the next generation of professionals who will help protect the dreams and aspirations of our community.
